(Dr Cécile Bando and Dr Adeline Clerc)

The city of Nancy and the Lorraine University (Department Info-comm = Information and communication) are working on a project so that the Festivals of Saint Nicolas are identified, protected and preserved as a cultural heritage around the world to be considered of outstanding value to humanity (Unesco). The project aims to inscribe the Festivals of Saint Nicolas on the World Heritage List. An educational resource kit for teachers called "World Heritage in Young Hands" has been published for over 130 UNESCO Member States. This project will be presented to the PhD Students.

Preparation for the upcoming cultural weekend activities with French Master Students

Presentation of the cultural events of the weekend on December 2nd and 3rd.

Saint Nicolas is particularly popular with children. He is considered as a kind of Father Christmas. The City is proud to organise a special festival and a parade in his honour. The festival will last 2 weeks with a special programme on the 1st week-end of December. Saint Nicolas Day is celebrated on December 6th.

8.45 - 12.00

Lecture: Presentation of the House for Science
(Dr Sébastien Giroux, Audrey Borr, Saïd Baouch, Anne-Sophie Berné)

This session will introduce the role of the House for Science in Inquiry Based Science Education (ISBE) in France, before testing several activities.

Tour of the Pilot Centre together with a primary class (10-11 years old)

Topic: Energy and Climate

One of the roles of the House for Science is to "act" with young students.
We will observe them answering some scientific questions about energy by investigating and experimenting.

Workshop: Pedagogical approach to technologic investigation

Concept: Living with IBSE for a better understanding of it. The students will be implied in a concrete technologic situation to be solved by the IBSE.

Lunch at ESPÉ (invitation)

13.00 - 16.30

Tour of a factory or a lab to discover an industrial process.
(Dr Sébastien Giroux).

Teaching science needs to be narrowly connected with the world of Research and Industry. One role of the House for Science is to develop a relationship between the teachers and the young students. Therefore, we will visit a factory or a lab, will meet researchers or engineers, and if possible, will try to participate in an industrial process, as trainees or students.

Bus back to Bed and Crous

Friday, 01 Dec. 2017

Shuttle transfer from Bed and Crous, departure at 08:15 AM

Maison pour la Science (MPLS) - Building B

8.45 - 12.00

Workshop: Pedagogical approach to scientific investigation (Dr Sébastien Giroux & Audrey Borr).

This workshop will present a scientific situation to be solved.

Lecture: IBSE, using Videos of teachers and pupils in classrooms (Film Festival of Young Researchers...)

As a conclusion, we will use different videos in parallel with the experience in the House for Science to make IBSE clearer. We will especially focus on the role of the teacher and on the different steps of this teaching approach.

Lunch at ESPÉ (invitation)

Shuttle to Campus LSH, Nancy Venue: Room A123

14.00 - 16.30

Lecture: Innovative pedagogical trends
(Dr Samuel Nowakowski)

The presentation will be organised in three parts. First, the main concepts of the pedagogical transformation will be introduced and its main objectives related to the challenges of the education in the 21st century. In a second part, students will experiment a flipped classroom dedicated to digital humanities in a "living laboratory", and discuss the strengths and weaknesses of such a pedagogical approach. Finally, after an intercultural discussion on teaching learning and teaching strategies in Hong Kong, guidelines for the implementation of active pedagogy in the Hong Kong context will be elaborated.

Weekend (Days 5 & 6)

City walk and Teamwork

Saturday + Sunday:

Photo report on a French well-known cultural event (Saturday), "Saint Nicolas Festival"* and photo report in the city, teamwork with French Master students

Venue: Campus LSH, Nancy, Room A123

9.00 - 12.00

Workshop: Feedback on weekend activities: Photos and culture
(Dr Cécile Bando and Dr Adeline Clerc)

Activity: The students will choose some photographs which they consider to be representative of the cultural events of the weekend, as well as photographs representing best the atmosphere of the city during Saint Nicolas time in Nancy. They present their snapshots to the whole group and explain their choice as well as the way they have perceived this popular and cultural event and its highlights.

Lecture: Saint-Nicolas' Legend.

The legend will then be explained to the students only at this time in order to enable them to express their initial feelings and what they've understood from the legend of Saint Nicolas via the cultural events. The following discussion will be related to the popular representation of a legend by cultural events.
